SURRY COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Education is the best process for changing the structure of a society, regardless of type. It is, by necessity, a moving phenomenon. It cannot stand still because of new developments that change the prospect of the future from one minute to the next. There is a call for equality, justice, truth, and other abstract
ideas that can have actuality only in application.

S#00-586

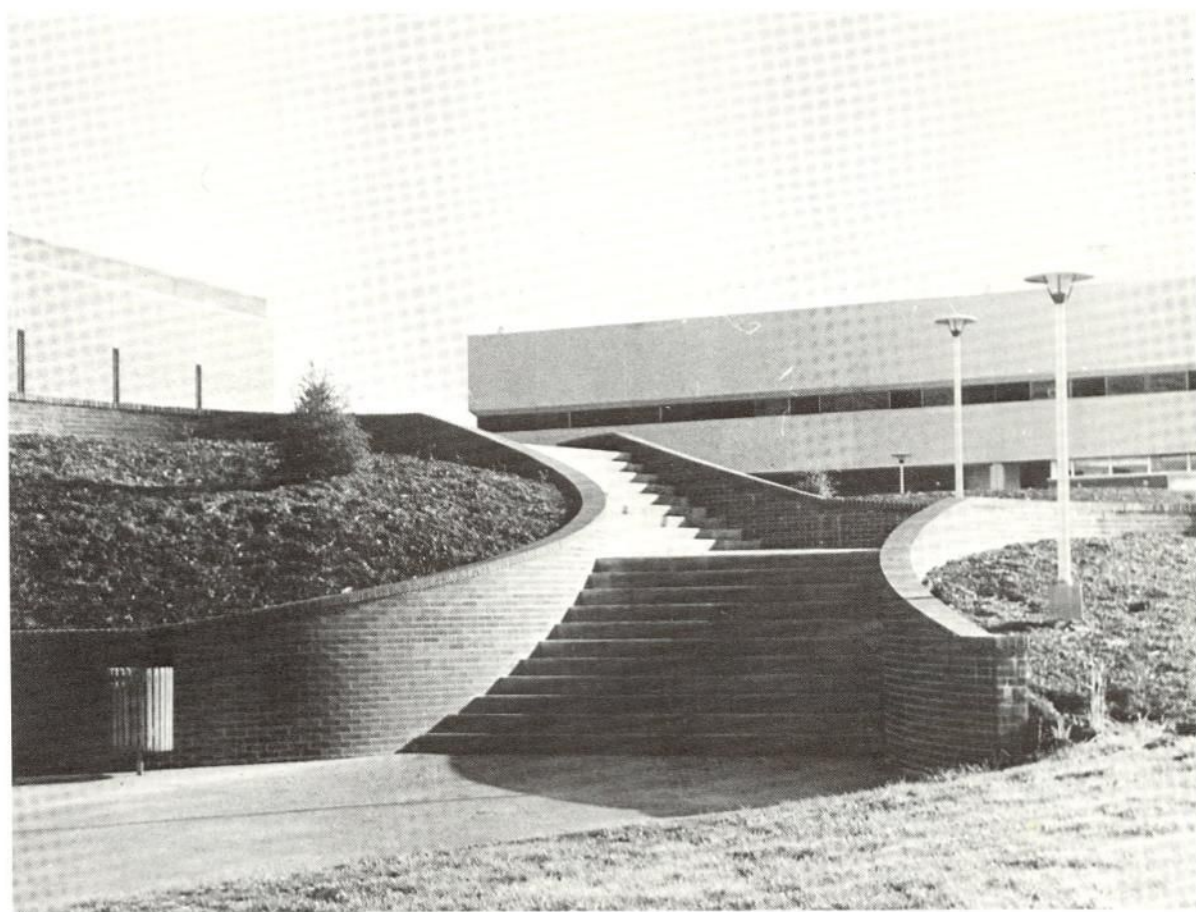

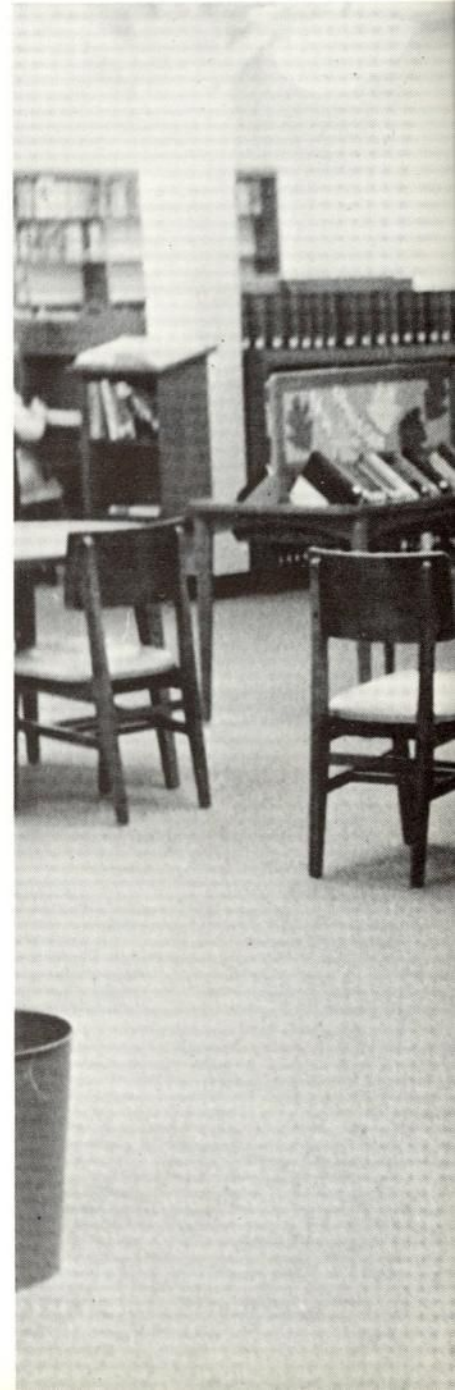

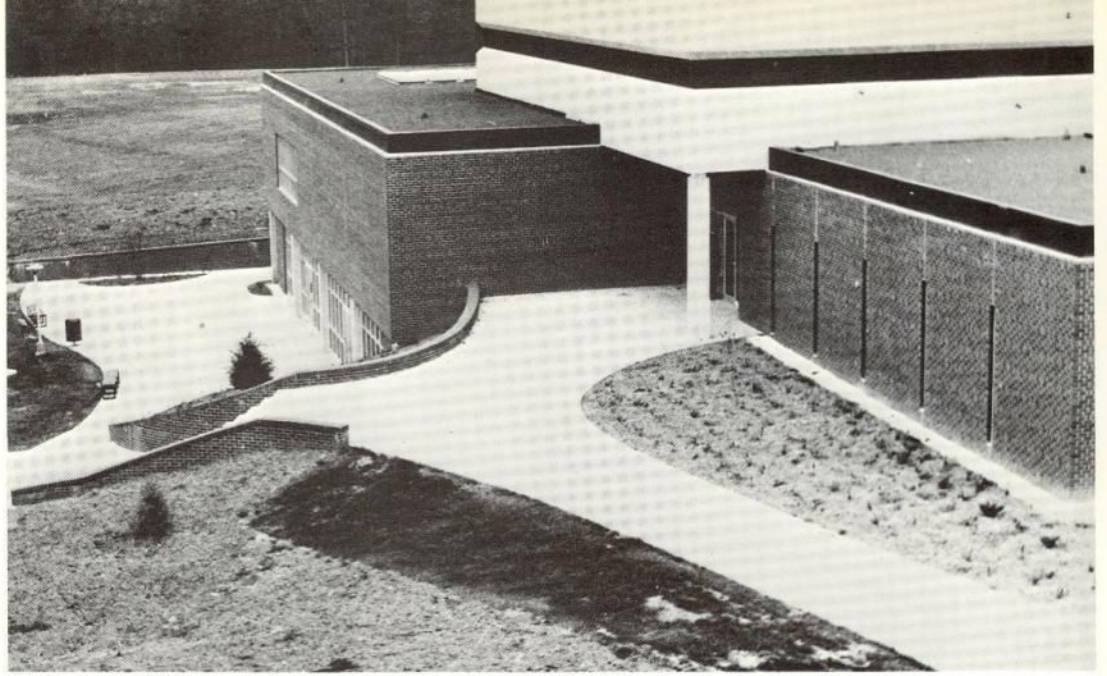

Amidst the turmoil, the quiet hush, the thirst for knowledge, the flood of friendship, the autumn showers that brighten the horizon, our campus, though physically small, still engulfs students with ideas that are as big as the universe.

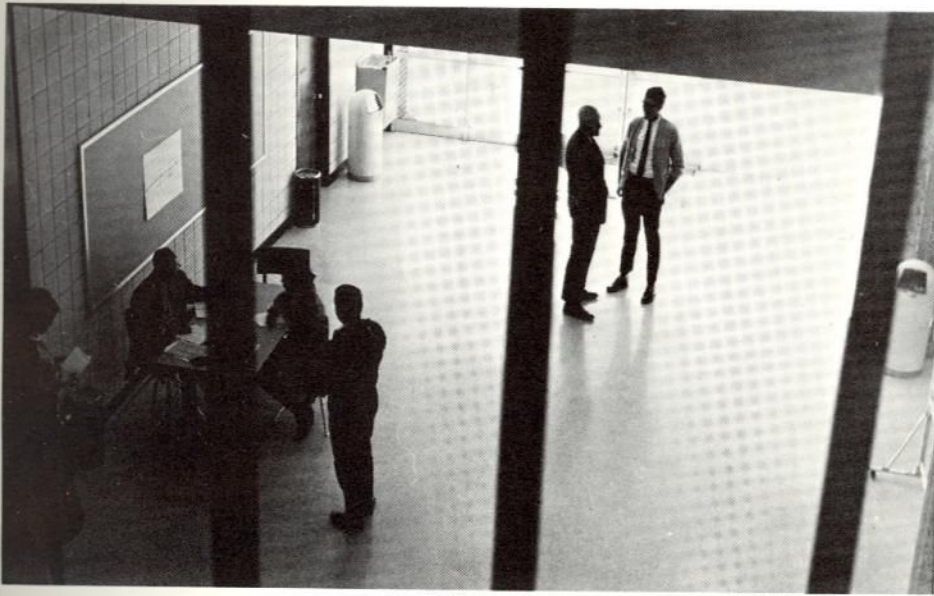

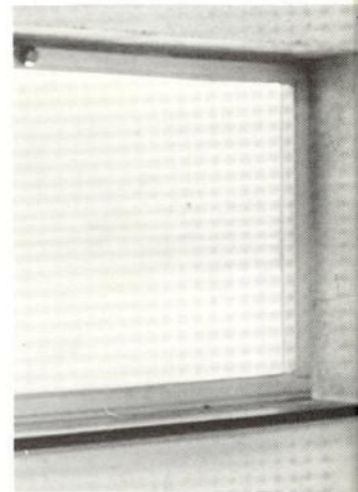

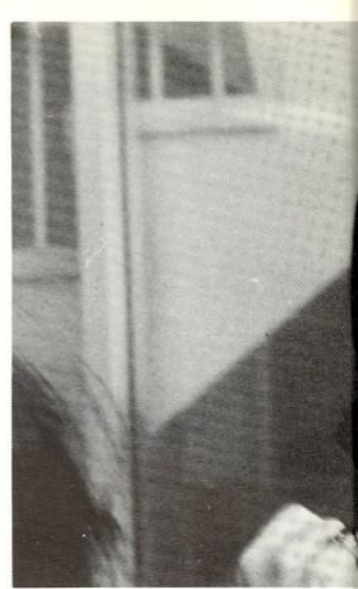

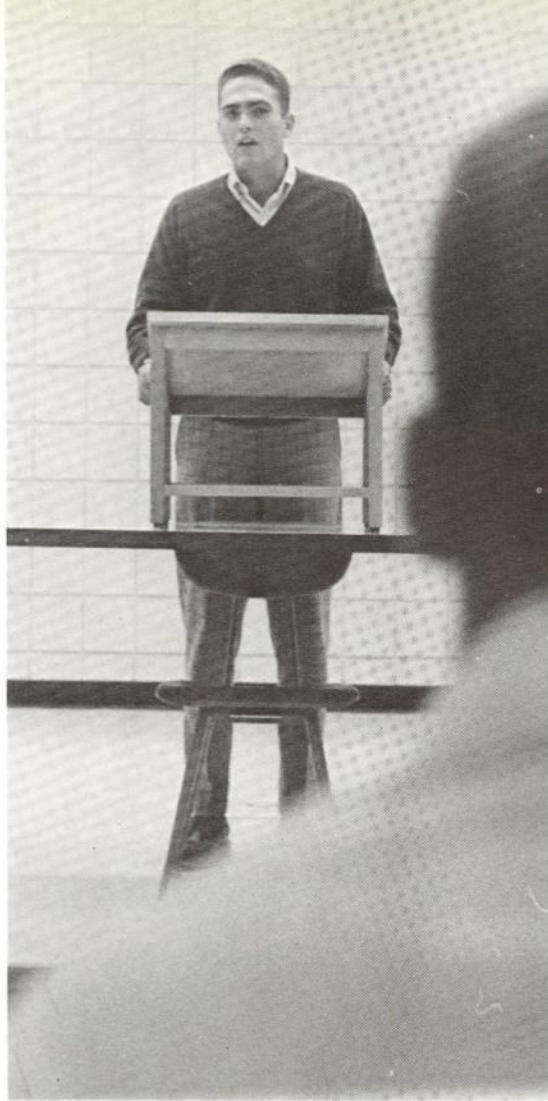

The climb . . .
alone . . .
together.

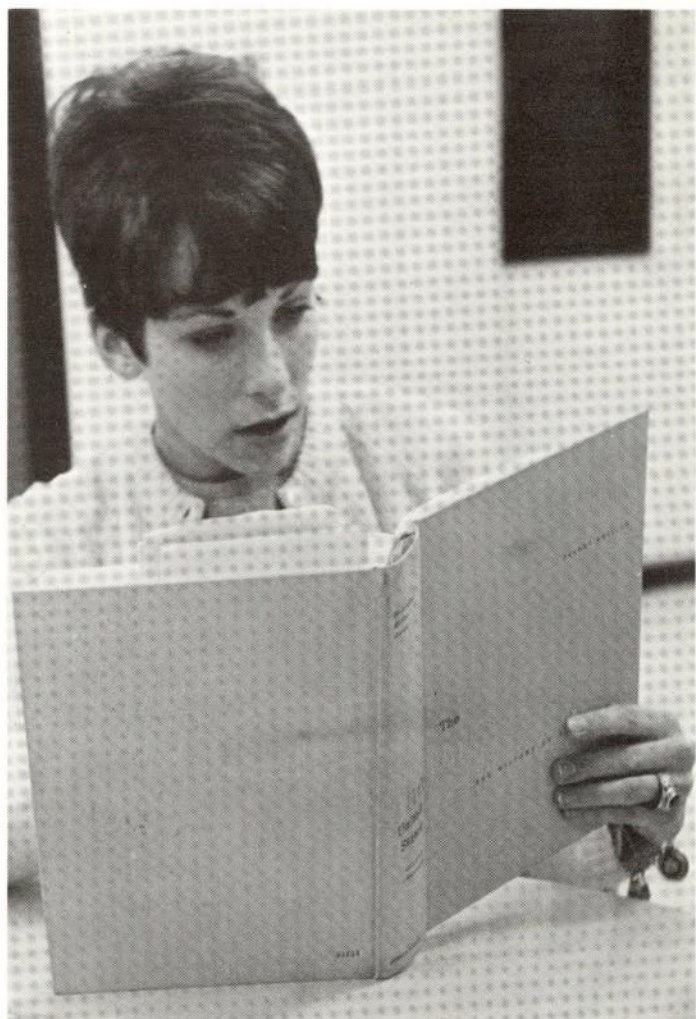

Steps are synonymous with life. Some are long and straight; others are curved and complicated. It is the goal of education to straighten the curves and yield new paths to follow.

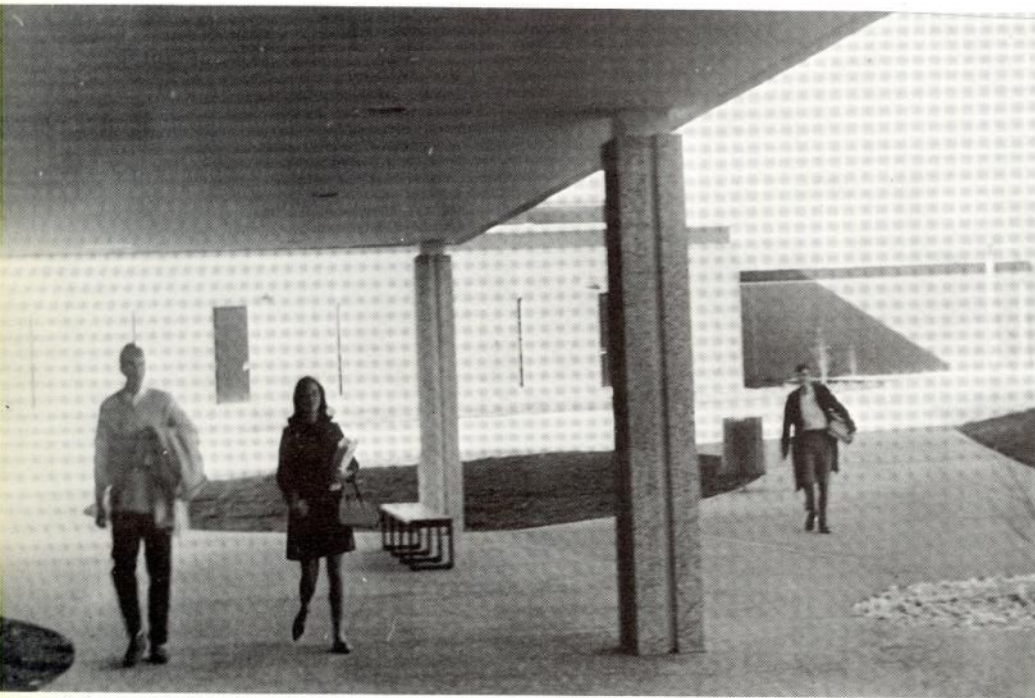

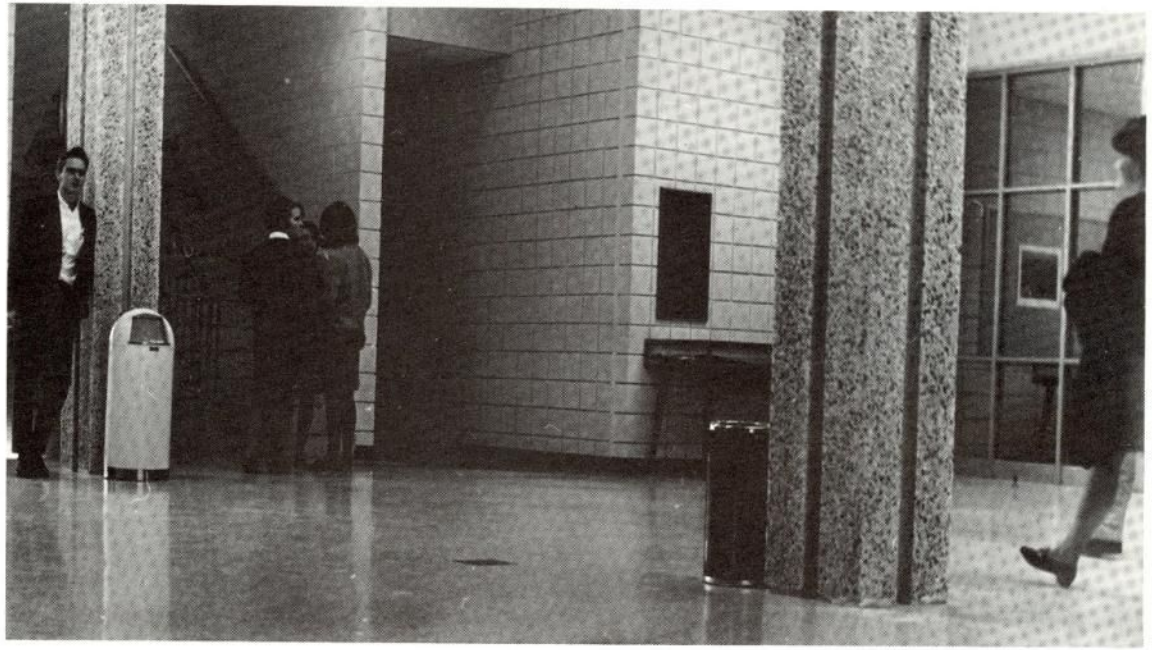

Change has been from minute to hour to day to year. The student who keeps in mind that 1967-68 was a year of unending change, and that 1968-69 will be another, then the alteration will have been real and good, not a repetition with little variations that can be lost all too easily. If he has been here at Surry Community College, then he knows what the year has been, and he will not have to think too long before recalling days of toil mingled with pleasure.

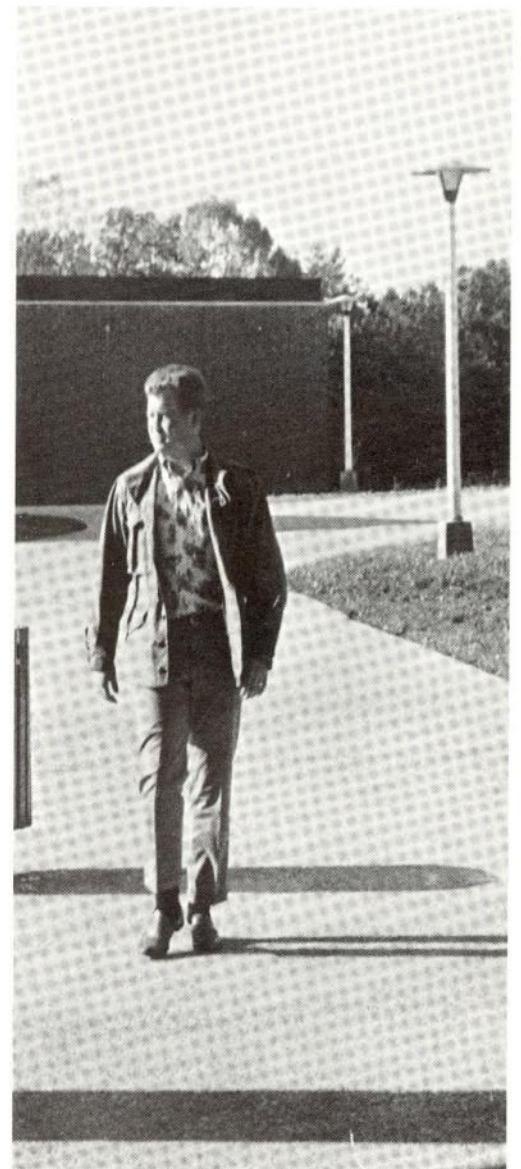

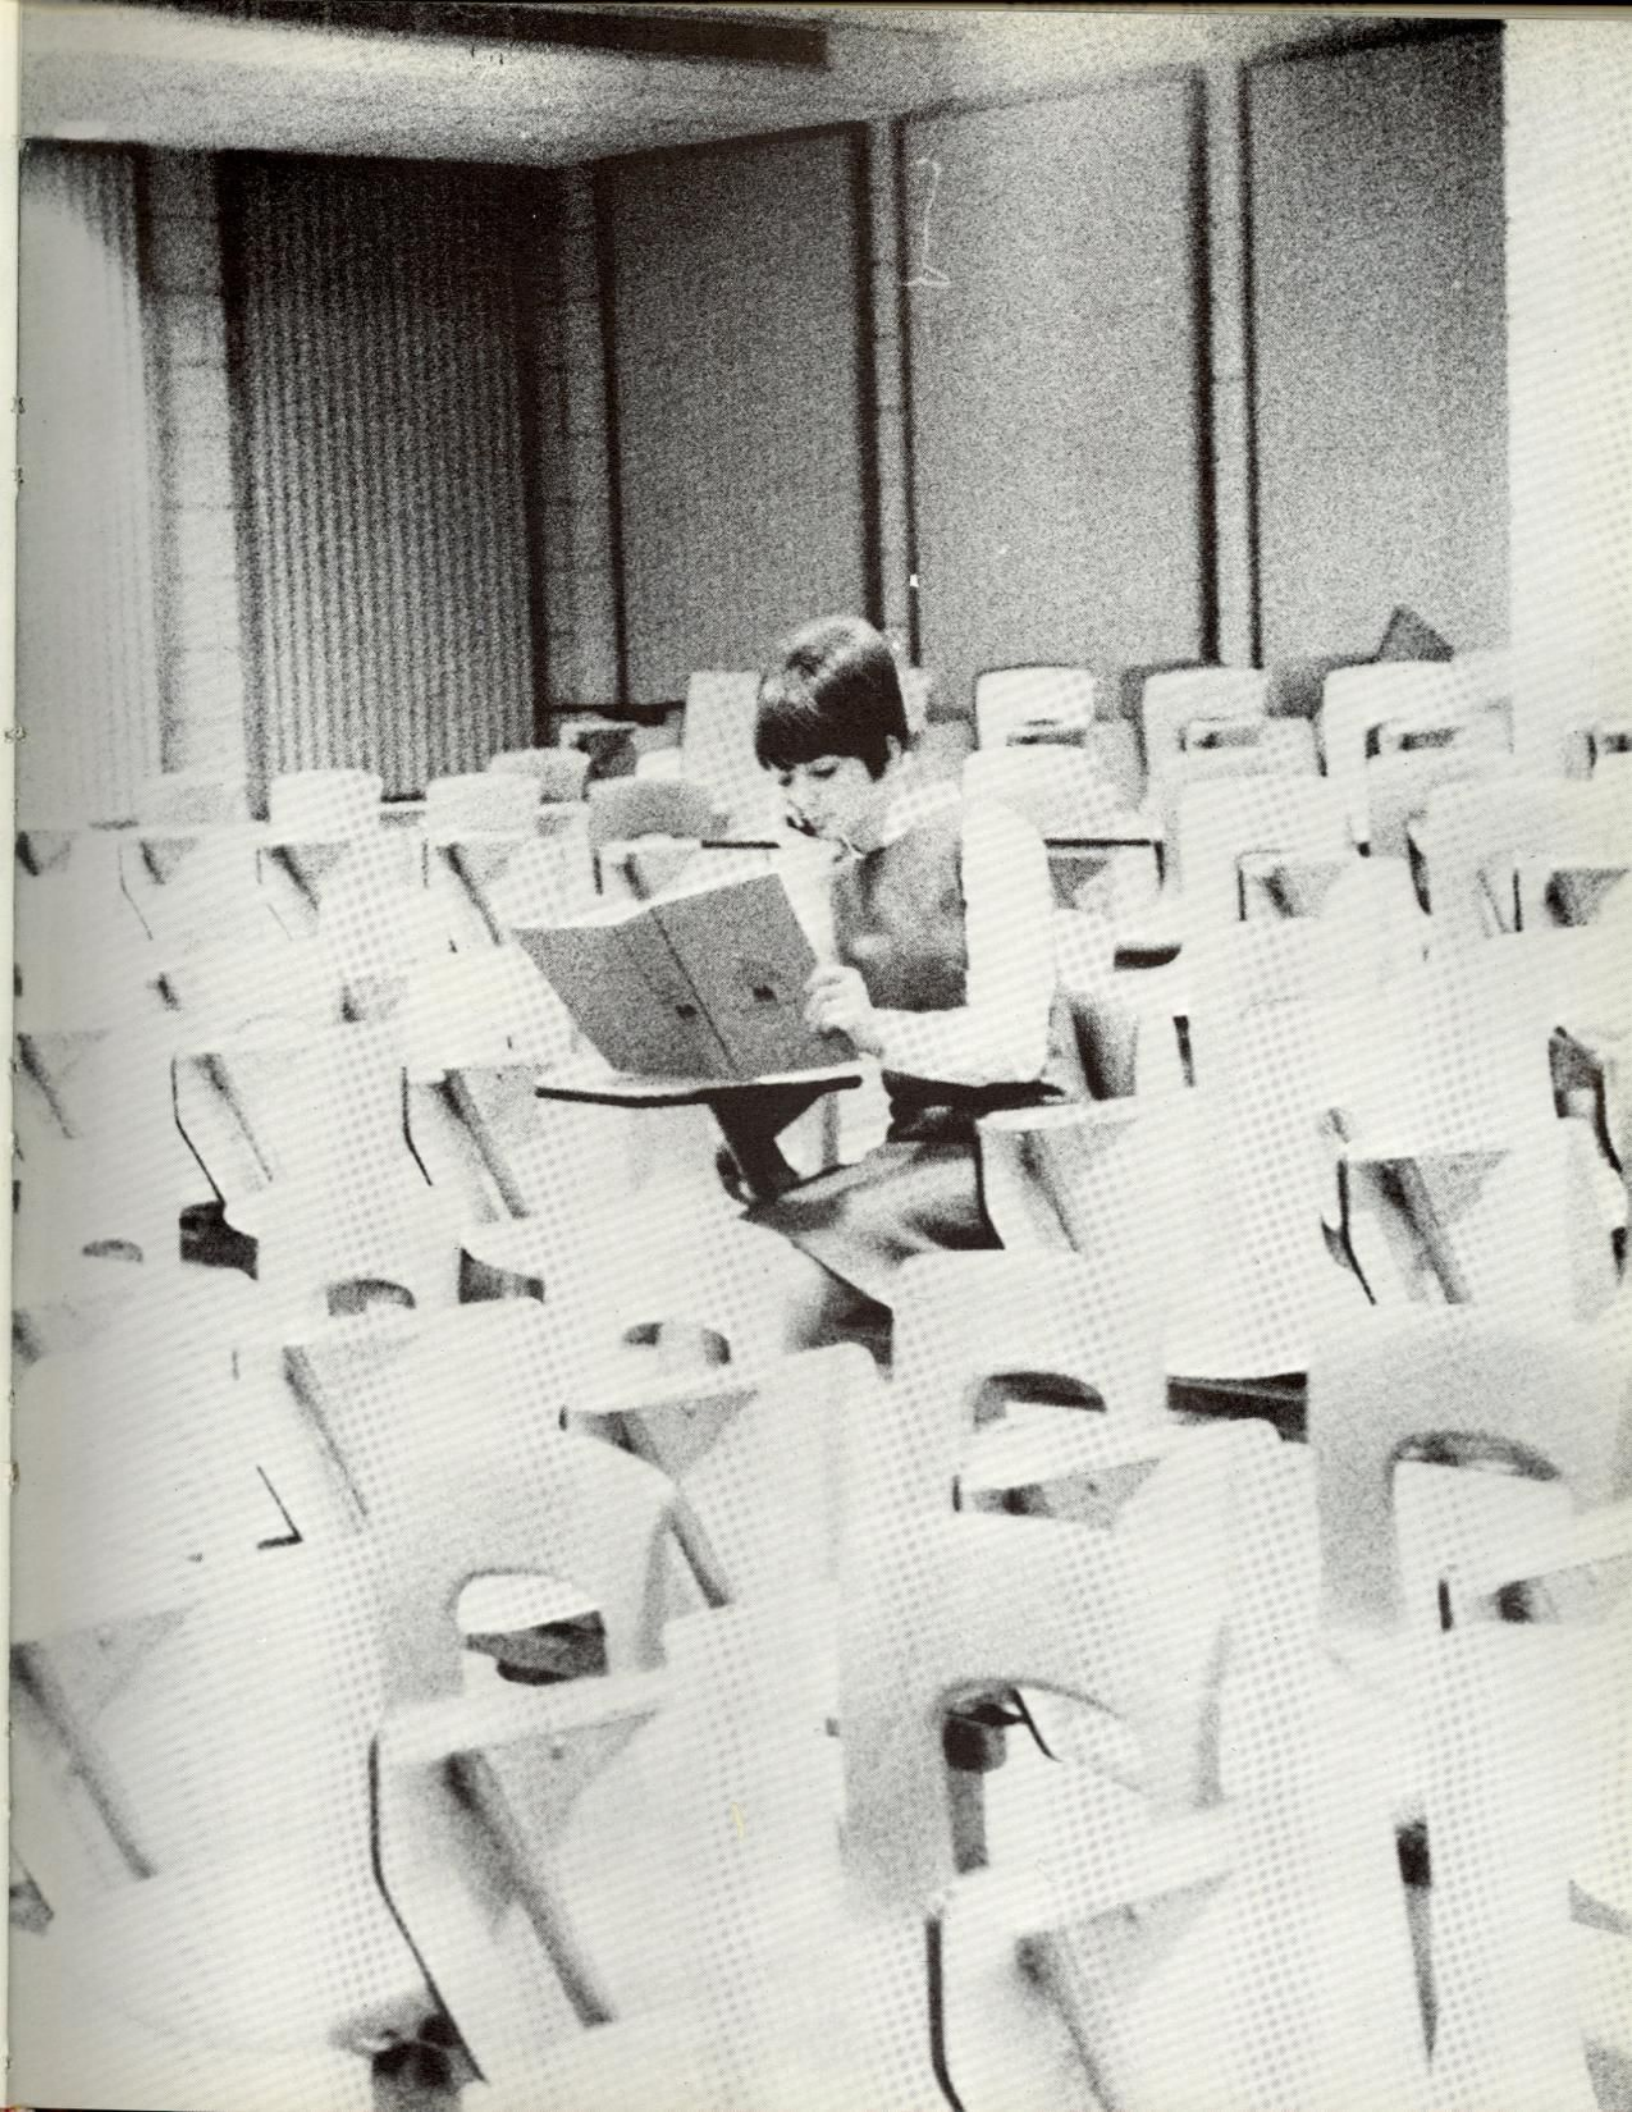

Faces are mirrored emotions — signs of understanding, aversion, fear — employing the physical use of a smile or a frown, and translating these symbols into emotional reality based on the sum of our experiences and interactions with the perceptual world.

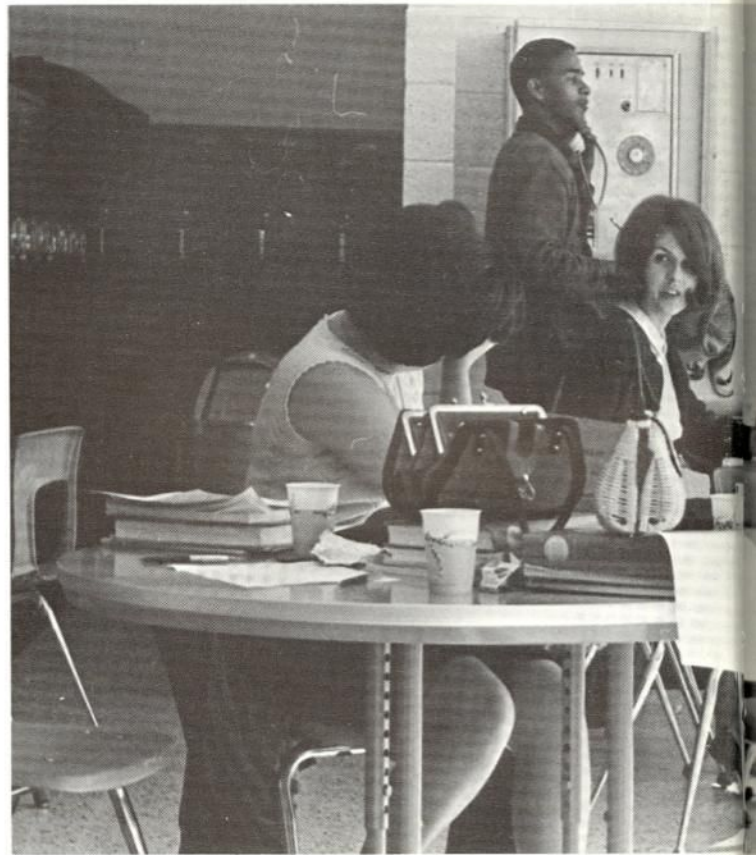

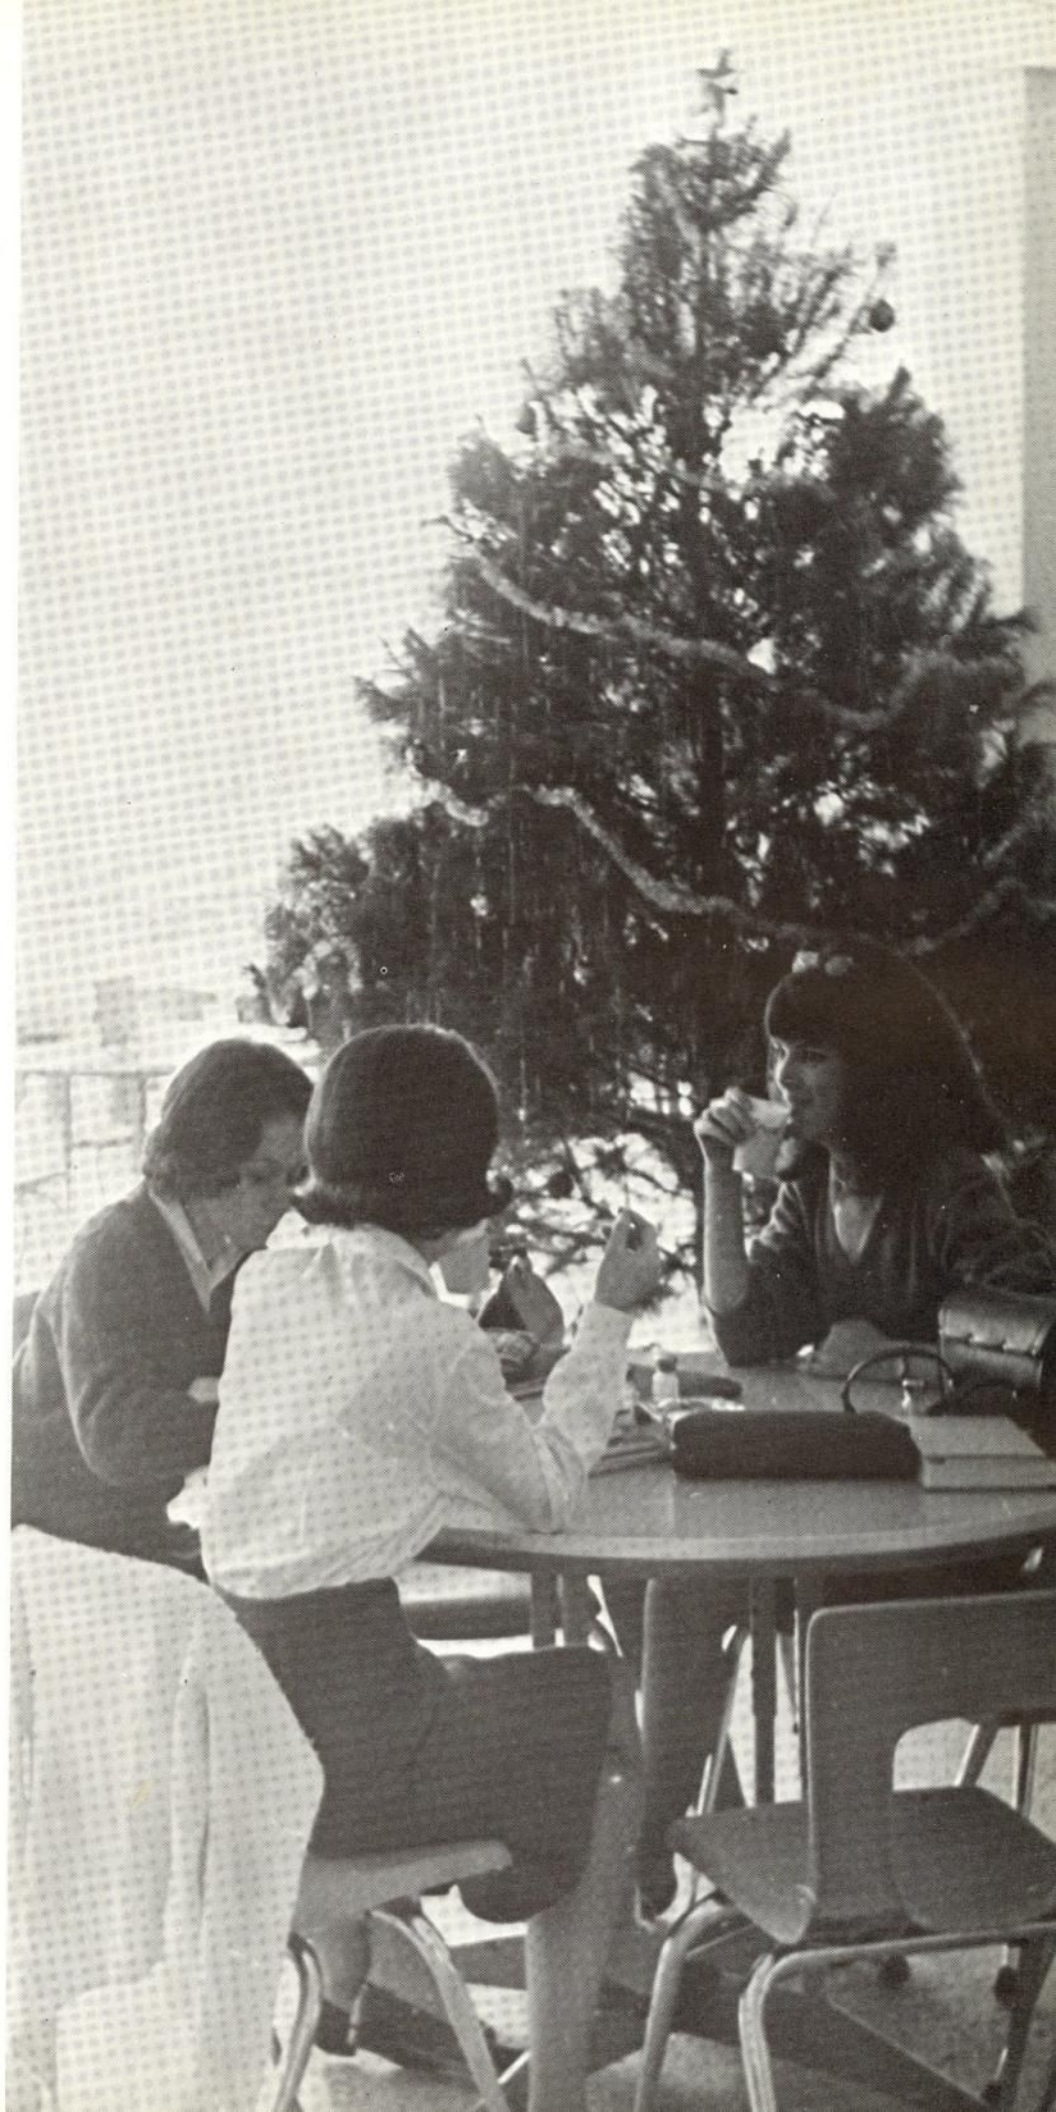

Life at college is happy, serious, sometimes lonely. During loneliness we grope for understanding, for someone who will share and believe, for someone with whom to view tomorrow or merely discuss yesterday. We strive to be apart from the mainstream, yet a part of an intimate relationship.

The everchanging activities involved in student life give mobility to the face of the campus — a student-centered world which lasts
a short span of time but forever colors the future and remains a bright memory.

ADMINISTRATION and FACULTY

In Memoriam

David Locke Webb

Robert Burrus

Will Munday

The dream still lives,
It lives, it lives,
And shall not die!

—Green

We, indeed, owe much to these men, now deceased — Will Monday, Robert S. Burrus, and David Locke Webb. They were chosen to guide into fruition a dream — the founding of our college. In the beginning, it was their vision, their resourcefulness, their persistence, and their unrelenting toil and optimism which gave to us, the people of Northwest North Carolina and adjoining areas, that which enriches our lives today.

With such a heritage as that which these far-sighted men have given to us, Surry Community College strives unceasingly to broaden and enrich the students' outlook and aspirations so that, upon graduation, they will be able to weather any storm at any level of life.

I. John Krepick
President

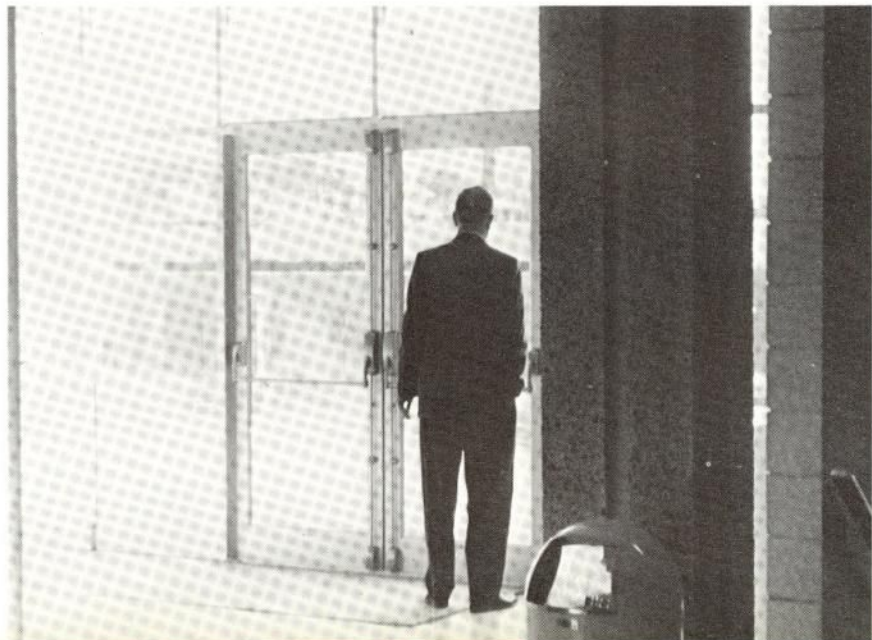

President of the College

The task of establishing a college is, indeed, no mean feat. With experience and insight, our Mr. Krepick has brought Surry Community College from an 8' x 10' office to our present campus.

President Krepick is always conscious of the needs of the students and faculty.

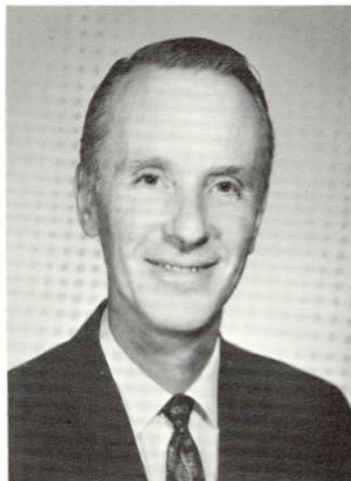

. . . then there are rare moments of silence.

Administration

Here at S.C.C. the administrators have been and continue to be as much a part of student activity as a part of the administration. Too often the administration is thought of by the students as a vast network of hard-to-reach, busy, and aloof figures. Our administrators have a keen desire to respect the individual aptitudes, ambitions, and personalities of the students and their actions have demonstrated their concern for the students' welfare and happiness.

From days of long hard work . . .

What would we do without the services provided by the College Staff. These hard-working people are sometime over looked when laurels are passed out. However, we do appreciate them and enjoy our association with them.

Here comes Mr. Reeves. Put up the cards!

When I pull my ear watch everyone disappear.

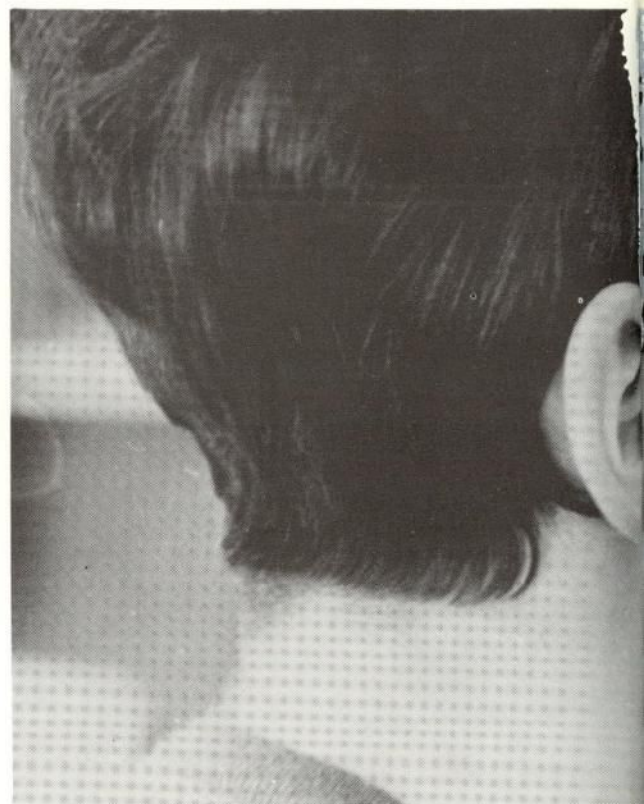

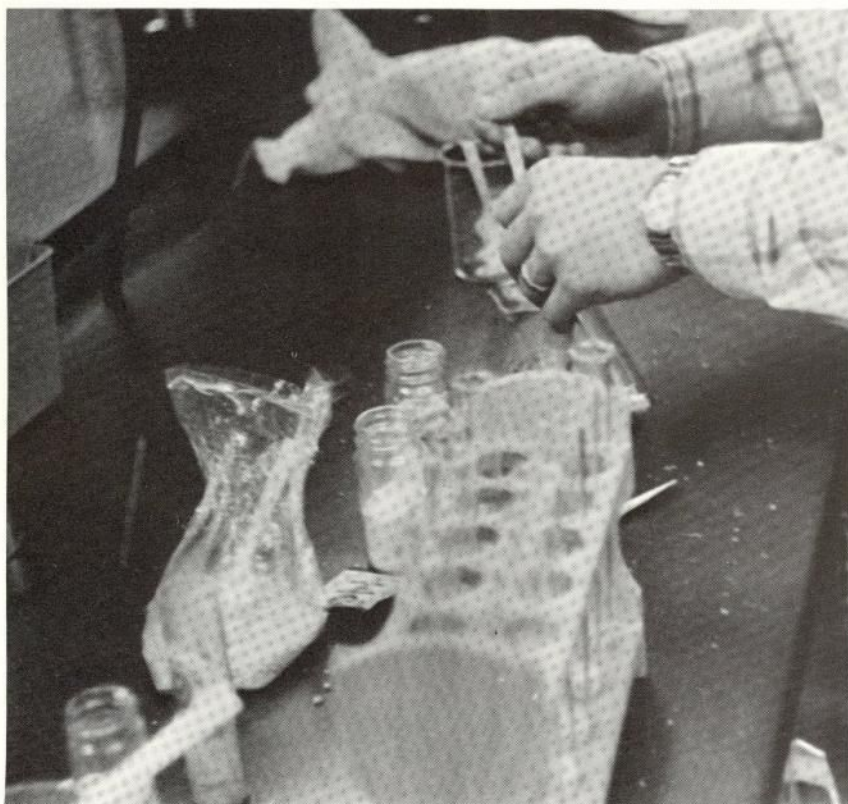

Even using lunch break, no one can ever finish that parallel reading.

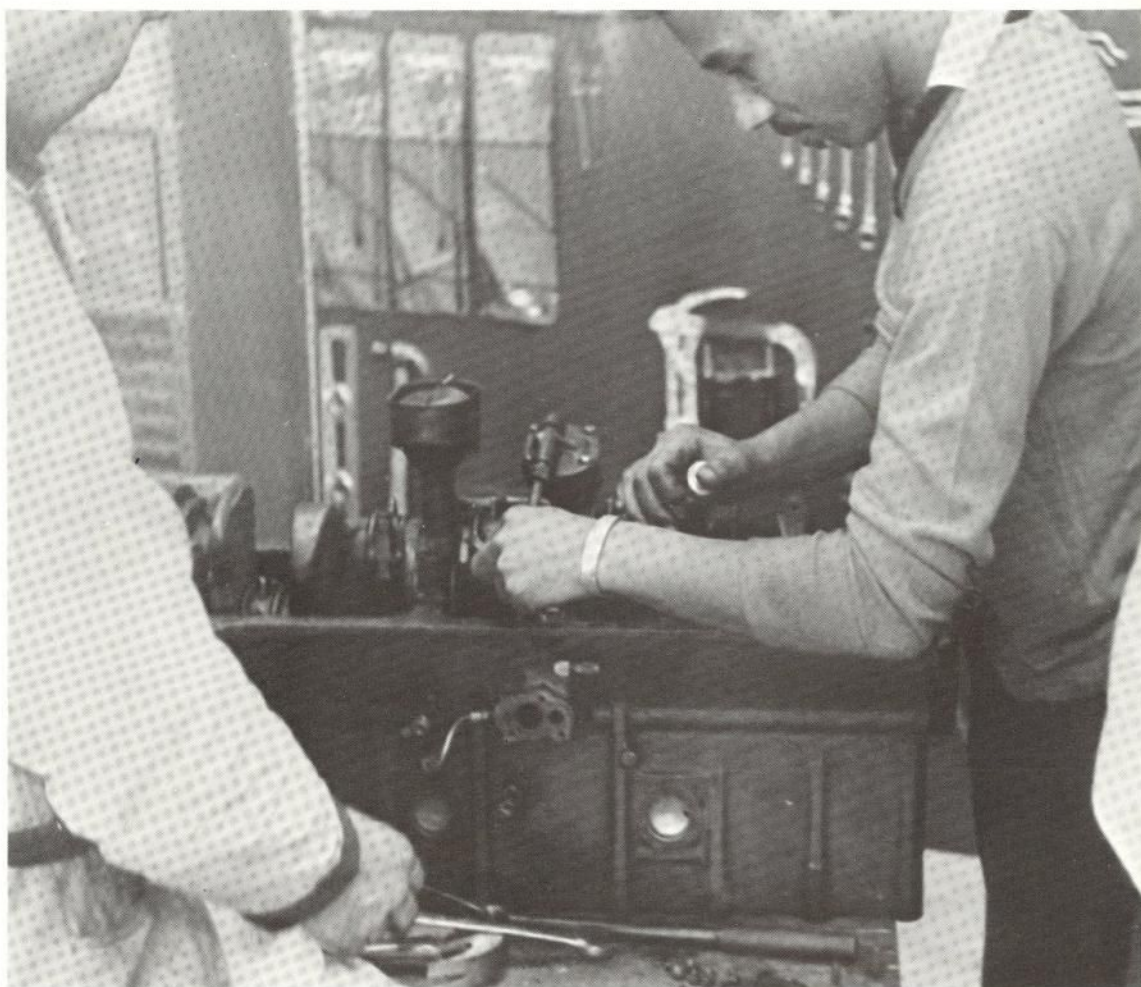

Alas, the camera is turned.

Let's find a nice quiet corner and watch each other eat.

Everything we seek science discovers, which is a product of man's genius.

If Rudolph can't fix it, no one can.

Coke after Coke after Coke . . .

A bird's eye view.

Is he coming or going?

A pyramid is as strong as its weakest back.

We know no spectacle so ridiculous.

A pumpkin with Christmas Decorations???

The terrifying trio of S. C. C.

We must have the desire to reach the apex.

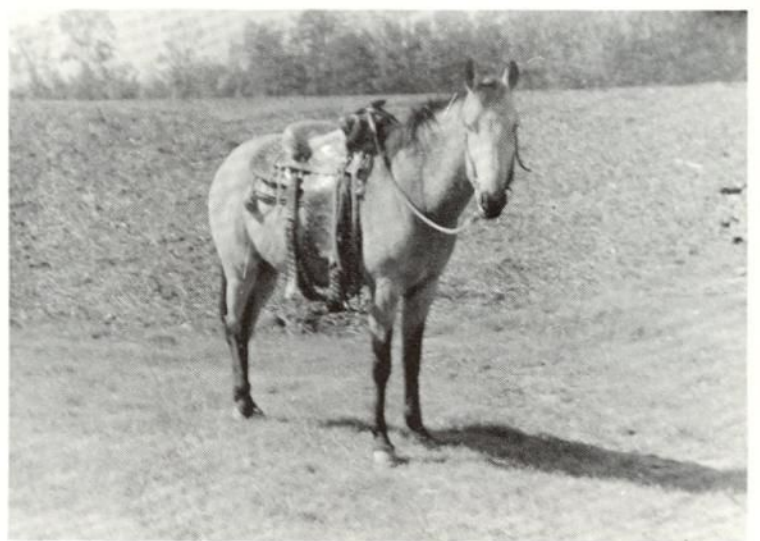

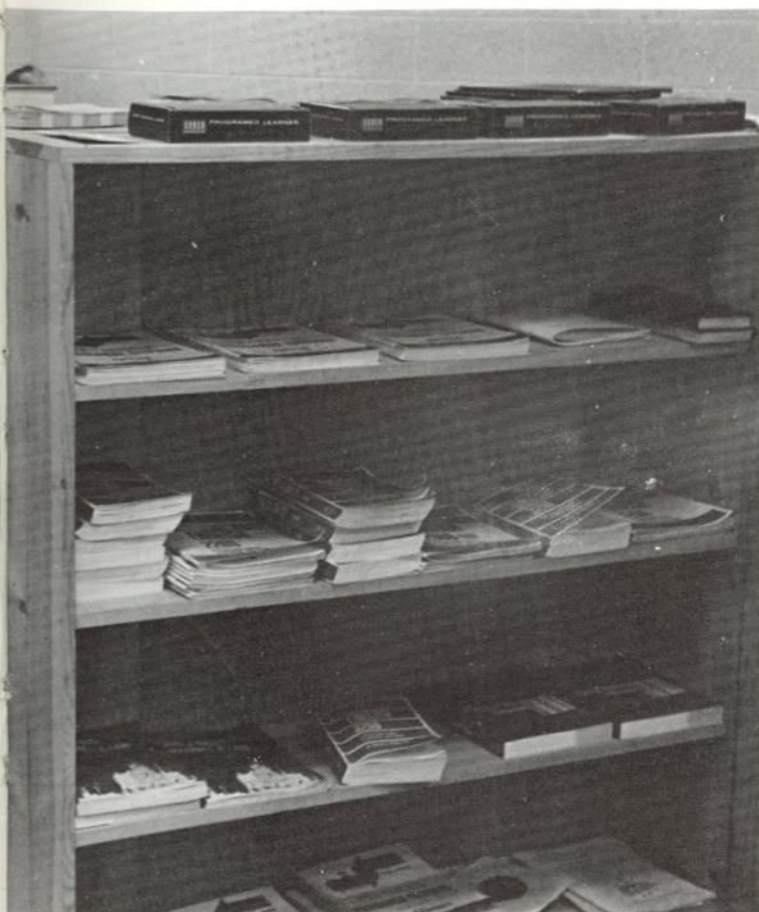

Not many people show up on snow days.

At the top, we look down, recalling times past.

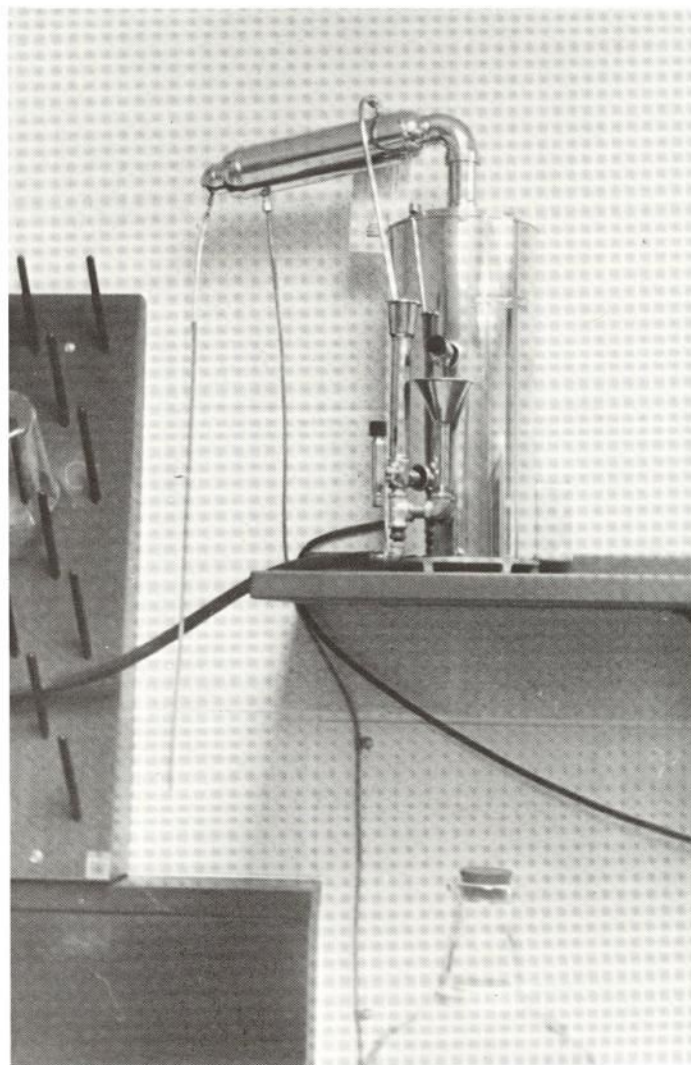

The parking problem has just got out of hand.

An interesting view of the Programmed Learner stacks.

There he is again, grinning
like an opossum.

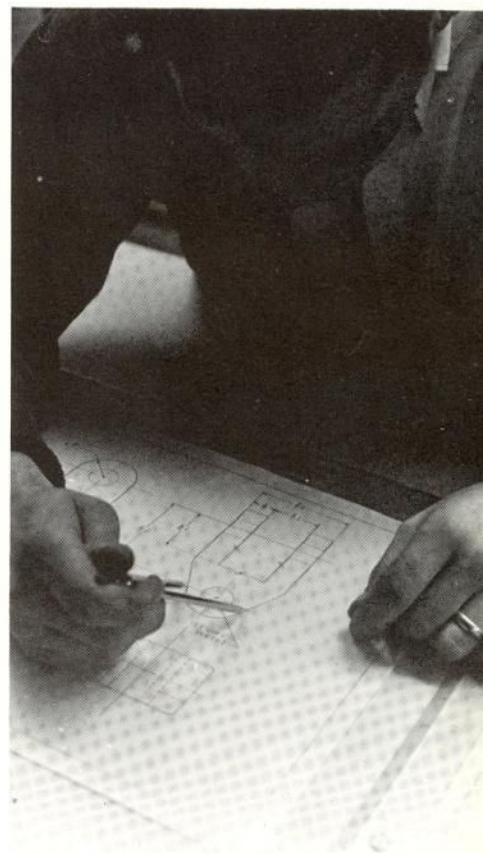

I'd rather have a coke.

A high-class still!

We may have small windows, but we've got a big outlook.

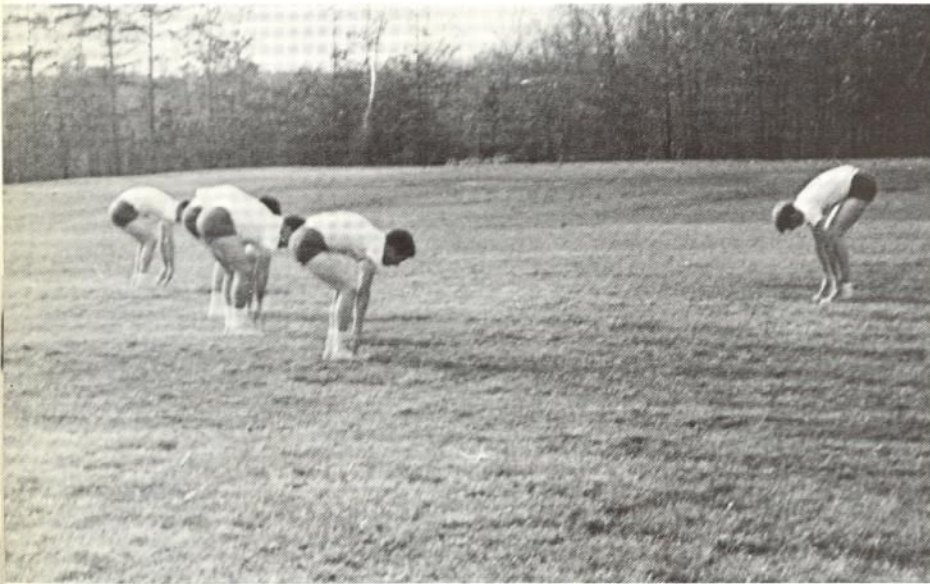

The distance is nothing; it is only the first step that counts.

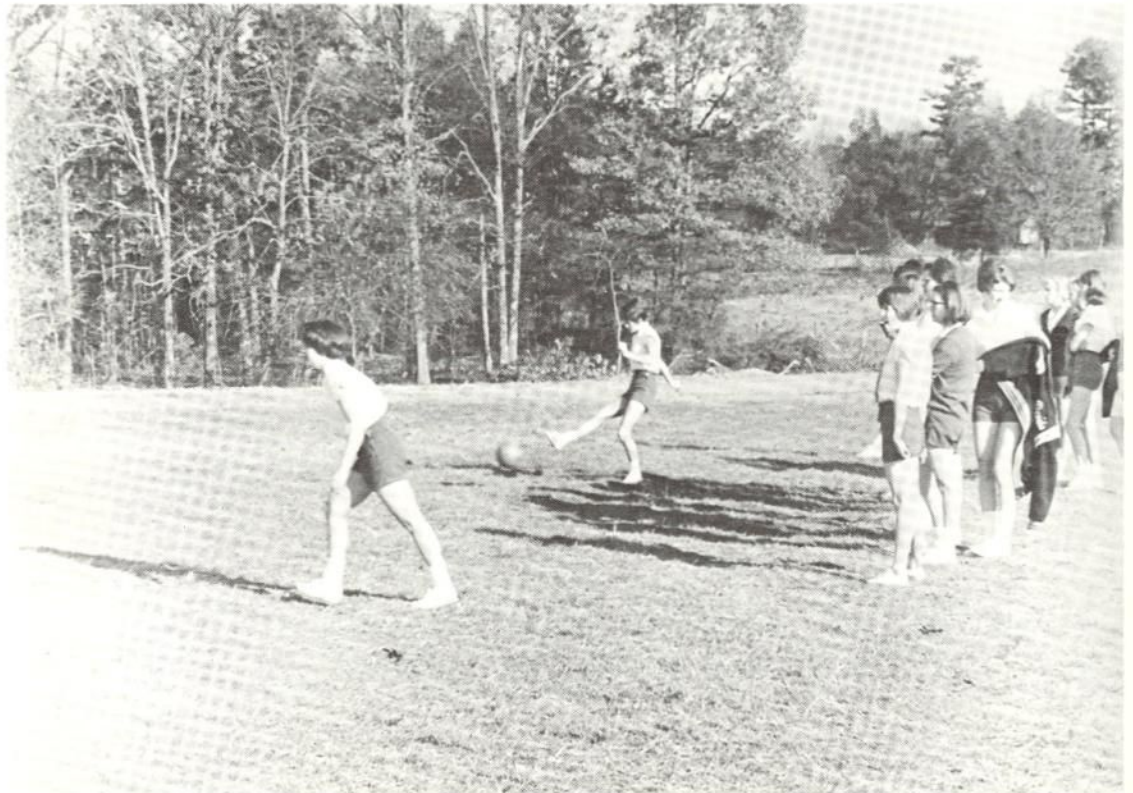

A big lay up goes in.

Straighten those legs!
